

The no-call list makes a night-and-day difference on the stress level in our house. Before, our phone was ringing several times an hour with telemarketing calls. Now, we can be someone certain that when the phone rings, it's someone we actually want to talk to.